After 20 years in construction and design, interior designer Allison Campbell has assisted in creating the design for nearly 400 homes. "I specialize in new construction and what brings me the most joy is that I love what I do, every single day," says Allison.

Being passionate about design and helping families to create the home of their dreams is one of the talents that we admire most about Allison. When asked about her design philosophy, Allison says, "There is no right way, nor wrong way to design a space....The perfect way to design is to create a space the client feels at home in."

Our Downeast leather Paladin sofa and upholstered Jaison accent bench are a perfect complement to this living room space by combining harmonious design with durability. "I love to infuse spaces with eclectic pieces from Downeast Home to add texture and personality. Every once in a while, the perfect little accent piece pops up and completes a space...just fabulously. The quality is great and the customer service makes my job easy," says Allison.
